- Matadores kill the bull
- Originally a sport for the upper class only and they were on horseback (711 AD)
- Commoners weren't able to afford horses, so they did it without one (this is what happens today)

“Culturally, it’s like the Kentucky derby...It’s very much a part of traditional Spanish culture. They take it as a ritual. It gets portrayed as a sport, but they use every single part of the bull that they kill. There is a very proper way to do it.”

Los postales (graded)

You are going to live in Spain for 2 weeks with the Campos - a Spanish family. However, they do not speak English! You decide to write them a postcard from Charlotte, giving them some personal information about you. Be sure to tell them in full Spanish sentences:

- Your first and last name
- What day it currently is
- How old you are
- When your birthday is
- What your phone number is
- What city you live in

You are curious about some things from them too.

So, ask them where they live and what their phone number is, too

You should decorate the front of your postcard with something that represents Charlotte.

Rough draft completed on your notes sheet

When you're done, have me check it by raising your hand quietly

Then you will do a final draft on a half sheet of lined paper and glue it to a half sheet of white paper.

Then decorate the front of the postcard to reflect Charlotte/your home.

Graded on:

- Did you fully complete the task?
- Does it make sense?
- Are sentences complete?
- Did you put effort into the final draft?

Reminders:

- All requirements are on your papers
- No use of technology
- Work quietly and diligently
- Raise your hand for your teacher to check over the rough draft
- Due at the end of class (take it home if you don't finish it)
